Cracks at Creation.

The practical joker is not always as practical as his jokes.

The good do not always die young. You are still with us.

When fools begin to argue wise men keep their mouths shut.

The person who is wedded to trouble should get a divorce.

Who authorized the erection of the bill board at the cemetery gate?

Truth is mighty, but it is often circumvented by a sneaky little lie.

And still, we are not entirely without hope. Some day it is sure to rain.

There are people, of course, who live to learn, only to die and be forgotten.

The wise man keeps his thoughts to himself. The fool lets him keep his, too.

Some people are so stingy they are unwilling to part with their own meanings.

Fame and fortune beckon to every man, and keep just out of the reach of most of them.

The most brilliant fool we know of is the fellow who drives with his muffler cut out.

Even the most confirmed "wet" can not deny that this has been a remarkably dry summer.

Good news, fellows! Report has it that there will be no immediate reduction in taxation.

If word alcohol produces blindness it would seem that a lot of people prefer not to see the light.

True courtesy demands that you laugh when your friend repeats his favorite joke—but not at him.

The fortunate man is generally the last one to recognize the fact. He is always yearning for something better.

The world is loud in its demand for permanent peace and silent in its feverish preparation for the next war.

About the most notable thing in connection with the general depression in business is the fact that it is general.

"When things don't go right I know how I feel," said the employer. "So do we," chirped the employe. No more was said.

The Russian bolshevik, having failed to annihilate the world, is now begging the world to prevent starvation from annihilating them.

The fellow who is looking for a scrap is always the last to lay down his gun. Japan has been heaving on the matter of disarmament.

Seems to us it is about time for someone to begin to talk about profits again. Or has everybody concluded to join in the game?

Mother Eve set the fashion in abbreviated dress, and a few of her feminine descendants are striving nobly to teach even her a few tricks.

If that Washington conference succeeds in settling the far eastern question it is presumed the people of the far east will be advised of the fact.

If each citizen had one of those guns that shoot three hundred miles we might load up the battery and down out some of that congressional noise.

As an optimist of the first water, Postmaster General Hayes is it. He believes the public would prefer to pay 25 cents for a special delivery stamp instead of paying the present price of 10 cents.

A United States senator junketing in Germany writes that the debts owed us by foreign governments are paralyzing trade with this country. If that be the disease, it would seem that the logical remedy would be to pay up.

Legionnaires Bury Cpl. Wilburt Naylor

The remains of Cpl. Wilburt Naylor, who died in France in October, 1918, was shipped back to the land of his native birth and was buried Sunday afternoon at 3:00 P. M.

The services were conducted by Rev. E. S. Hudson of the Presbyterian church and the Legionnaires of the county in uniform.

"NEW TARIFF OUTRAGE"

Says Ohio Republican Member Of Congress

SEEKS TO RESIGN IN DISGUST.

A special to the Louisville Post from Washington, says Representative Charles L. Knight, Republican of Akron, Ohio, who represents one of the greatest industrial districts in America, may resign his seat in the United States Congress in disgust and return to private life, where he knows he can live in contentment and preserve his self-respect.

Soon Public Money Squandered.

Mr. Knight has not long been a member of Congress until he was filled with the conviction that if the people of the United States, the patient, long-suffering taxpayers, knew how the public business was conducted at Washington, they would come to the capital en masse and kick the whole outfit into the Potomac river. He has never ceased to harbor that thought, and the more extended his experience and observation the deeper his conviction has grown. He is a plain, outspoken man and at times he has voiced in language perhaps more forcible than elegant his righteous indignation over the conduct of members of Congress who yelled for economy until they were hoarse in the last campaign and who, now that the election is past, are voting on the people the most lavish and burdensome extravagances.

According to his view, the Republican party made a solemn covenant with the people in the last campaign that it would reduce taxes and lighten the burden that bears heavily on the toiling masses and he cannot condone the conduct of members who now treat that covenant as "a scrap of paper." His view is that the people want relief from militarism, and that it is a crime to foist upon them monumental appropriations for the army and navy which they do not want and for which, according to his way of thinking, there never was less necessity than at the present time.

Tariff Bill Is Outrageous.

Mr. Knight's indignation reached the zenith when the Fordney tariff bill was put through the House under a rule which cut off amendments and compelled Republican members either to swallow provisions they did not like or vote against the bill. Mr. Knight was one of seven Republican members who chose the latter horn of the dilemma and voted a resounding "Nay" on the passage of the measure. He told recently the reasons that prompted him to do so.

"I regard it as the most outrageous piece of legislation I ever saw or ever heard of," he declared. "It is an illy considered, illogical hodge-podge. Articles are placed on the free list that ought to be protected, and other articles are given protection that ought to be on the free list. It was plainly apparent what the House would have done to the bill if it had the chance. On all five of the items that were thrown to open amendment the House overthrew the Ways and Means Committee and registered dissatisfaction with the bill."

"I cast my vote against the bill because I disapproved some of its items, but, more than that, as a protest against the methods used in passing it. In a most tyrannical, high-handed way the Ways and Means Committee usurped the functions of the House of Representatives, and those of us who wished to perfect the bill by writing into it justice and logic and square dealing found the door shut tightly in our faces. There was no way by which we could get out amendments before the House."

Cites Specific Instances.

"Take for instance, the effect of this tariff on my own district. The rubber companies of my district, the greatest in the world, did not want a tariff. They are no longer infant industries. They are grown up. They are able to take care of themselves. They do not need a tariff, and yet, despite the fact that the industry has no need of protection and does not desire it the Ways and Means Committee put a tariff on rubber goods. When I sought the privilege of offering an amendment on the floor to restore the item to the free list, I was told bluntly that I could not do so. Thus the House was denied the right to consider the matter and vote its convictions after a full presentation of all the evidence and an industry that has no more need of protection than a wagon has of a fifth wheel actually has a tariff" (Continued on back page.)

TOBACCO MEETING

Drew Good Audience Last Saturday

The meeting of the tobacco growers and farmers of Garrard county met in the court house last Saturday afternoon, at the call of the County Chairman, Judge L. L. Walker and listened with intense interest to the speakers that addressed them in the interest of the Co-operative Plan of marketing the tobacco crop of Garrard county.

At this meeting chairmen were named for the four magisterial districts of the county, and they in turn will name the chairman of the precincts of the county and report back at another meeting which is called for next Saturday afternoon in Lancaster at the Court House. Just as soon as the organization is fully completed, a house to house canvass will be made of the county, explaining fully to each grower the importance and results to be expected by joining this co-operative plan of marketing the tobacco crop, the greatest asset known to the farmers of Central Kentucky today. Every grower of the weed should attend the meeting next Saturday afternoon.

MAYOR AND COUNCIL

Liabie For Impure Water Supply.

Continuing its policy of taking action in those cases in Kentucky where municipalities themselves do not exercise sufficient care to see that the water supplied customers by municipal waterworks is pure, the State Board of Health has taken out warrants against the Mayors and Boards of Aldermen of Versailles and Hazard.

These warrants give the officials of those two cities thirty days within which to take the needed measures to purify the water supplied. If this has not been done by the expiration of that period, according to Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, the State Board of Health will proceed as in the Mayesville case, where a suit was brought in the Mason Circuit Court. That case now is before the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

Barn Blown Down

The large tobacco and stock barn belonging to George B. Robinson was blown down last Thursday afternoon on his farm near Marcellus. It was a total wreck, but fortunately it was well insured.

If you will consult E. C. Gaines, the Insurance Man, he will convince you that every barn should be insured against wind, hail, lightning, fire, etc. in one of the many companies he represents and which have a record for paying losses promptly. (It.)

Voice Of Caruso, Still- ed By Death.

Enrico Caruso, world famous tenor died in Naples, Italy, Tuesday morning after he underwent an operation Sunday, the results of which the surgeons were pessimistic from the beginning. The weakness of his heart necessitated the injection of camphor for many hours before his death.

The operation, the dispatch says, was for an abscess between the liver and the diaphragm, which caused acute peritonitis. Caruso's wife and brother were at his bedside.

The tenor was until a week ago on the way to recovery from the long illness, which began in New York last winter early in the operatic season, when suddenly he had an unexpected relapse and was removed from Sorrento to Naples.

He arrived at Naples Sunday night, and the specialists who were called in decided to operate immediately.

Meeting Closes.

Rev. George Childress, of Brodhead, Ky., has just closed a very successful meeting at Gilberta Creek Baptist church, Garrard county, Ky. The results were sixteen additions to the church, and a general awakening of the church members. He was assisted by Rev. Phelps. Remember the memorial services to be held on the foundation ground of the first Baptist church ever in Kentucky. This will be held on Sunday, Oct. 2, 1921, beginning promptly at ten o'clock.

DR. W. A. GANFIELD

To Leave Centre

President Of Danville College Will Go To Wisconsin Institution January 1st.

Dr. William A. Ganfield, president of Centre College, expects to leave the Danville institution January 1, 1922, to become president of Carroll College, Waukesha, Wis.

Dr. Ganfield last Monday offered his resignation, but consented to withhold it until the October meeting of the Board of Trustees, at the request of the Executive Committee.

The head of the institution that has been made nationally famous by its football team came to Kentucky from Wisconsin in June, 1915. Since then Centre's student body has increased from seventy-eight to 268. The college endowment has been increased to $1,000,000. The institution's budget has been advanced from $35,000 to more than $80,000. Faculty salaries have been raised approximately 60 per cent.

Loath To Leave.

In offering his resignation, Dr. Ganfield said:

"I am very, very loath to leave Centre College of Kentucky. I have spent a little more than six years of very busy, happy service there, and during that time have formed many friendships that will ever be to me of priceless value. I cannot properly express my appreciation of your loyalty, enthusiasm and devotion toward me and the college."

"I can never hope to be associated with a better group of men than are the trustees of Centre College, nor dare I expect to find ever a more cordial and loyal people than the citizens of Kentucky. I shall ever prize and cherish fond memories of my association with you and will always count it a privilege to render you any possible service."

No Difference Of Opinion.

Dr. Ganfield said after the meeting of the Executive Committee recently he especially desired to emphasize there was no difference of opinion between himself and the trustees. He pointed out there is no issue of salary or other personal consideration involved at the present time, and it is solely a question of how to provide best for the two colleges.

Drastic Orders.

Marshall James Bratton has received drastic orders from the City Fathers to immediately cut off the water of any patrons seen springing the lawns or streets. This order must be obeyed in order to conserve the supply in the lake which at this time is very low, the character of rains we are now having, are not the kind that fill the lake. "This order you will obey and look well to the East."

Drouth Broken.

The old proverbial saying, "that if it rains the first three days of dog days, it will rain for forty days," may come true this year if the rains continue as it has done in the past eleven days. What looked as if the corn crop in Garrard would be cut fifty or perhaps sixty per cent, appears now to produce an average crop or more, to say nothing of the rapid growth of the tobacco, which promises to be in fine quality, yet will fall far short in acreage and quantity.

Prewitt

Jesus visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Prewitt on the 28th. of July and claimed for his own their sweet little daughter, Opal Lee, who was given and taken the same day. How sad to give her up, but God knows best and our loss is His gain. Mother and Father.

Card Of Thanks.

We thank our many friends and love ones for their kindness and good deeds shown us during our sad hours through sickness and death. We feel like we never can repay them.

MOONSHINE STILL

Destroyed On Kentucky River About 3 Miles Above Brooklyn

WAS LOCATED IN A BARN.

Deputy Sheriff Joe Keefe accompanied by C. L. Winfrey, of Somerset, and J. M. Kavanaugh, of Lancaster, Government Revenue officials and George Crutcher, of Wilmore, destroyed a still on the Kentucky River, about three miles above Brooklyn, last Thursday. The still was on the farm of Levi Winkle in a barn and was of fifty gallon capacity. It was built in a well constructed furnace of brick and was as solidly put up as a permanent institution.

No one was on the premises when the officers appeared and approached the barn whose door was secured by a padlock. This was broken and the party entered and found the still. Tarpaulins had been hung around the wall on the inside to prevent any one from looking in. The still was said to have been operated by Hiram Lunsford, a renter, who has not since been seen. The proprietor of the farm claims ignorance of the existence of the still in the barn on his property.

The officers destroyed 50 gallons of beer and broke up eight 50 gallon fermentors, one process keg, one flake stand, malt grinder, mash rake and other tools. They also found a lot of malt corn and shorts and a gallon of singlings. The copper worm was brought by them to Wilmore and was exhibited in the window of the Jones Savage Lumber Company's building for several days. The brick furnace which was of solid construction, was also broken up.

It is said that Lunsford was away with liquor to sell at the time the officers made the raid.—Wilmore Enterprise.

Death Of H. A. Burdette.

Burgin, Ky.—July 27.—Mr. H. A. Burdette, an aged and well known citizen of Burgin, dropped dead yesterday afternoon, July 26, about 5 o'clock. Mr. Burdette in company with Messrs. S. K. Daughtry and L. A. Daughtry had spent a few hours fishing on Dix river, and were walking up the river hill, when Mr. Burdette fell and died suddenly, without speaking a word. He had been suffering much the past few weeks with acute indigestion, and had at times said that he felt as if he could not live, and in all probability acute indigestion caused his sudden death. Coroner Dan Wilson of Mercer county, was called and held an inquest and pronounced his death due to heart failure.

Mr. Burdette is survived by his wife and four children, Herring Burdette, of Lebanon; Mrs. Arthur Brooks, of Bryansville; Mr. Thomas Burdette and Miss Pauline Burdette, of Burgin, and a number of brothers and sisters.

Mr. Burdette and family moved from Garrard county to Burgin many years ago and have since resided here. The burial will take place in his family lot in Lancaster, beside his first wife, Thursday. We desire to extend our deepest sympathy to his splendid family in their sad loss, and commend them to Jesus, who alone can care for them.

Lexington Reos Win.

In an interesting game of ball last Friday the Lexington Reos defeated the Lancaster All Stars by the score of 7 to 1.

Hicks in the box for the local nine was not in the best of form and the visitors placed their hits over the lot for the seven runs in the first two and one-half innings when Frank relieved him and held the Reos to no hit and no score game.

Frank pitched himself out of several tight places, having several times three men on bases with no outs and then let it be three men up and that many down.

The feature of the entire game was the home run by Clay Miller. He connected with the pill and drove it out of the lot for the only homer and score for the local team.

Young Child Dies.

The three year old child, Mary B. Metcalf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Metcalf, died of ptomaine poisoning at their home on the Kirksville pike last Tuesday morning and was buried in the Lancaster cemetery yesterday afternoon.

GROWERS BROKE

Refuse Prices Which "Would Not Pay For Wood"

To Cure Tobacco, Says Fayette Man, On Return.

FAVORS MARKETING PLAN.

Mr. J. L. Knight, who owns a large farm in Fayette County, and is quite heavily interested in a Lexington warehouse, also operates a warehouse at Bamberg, S. C., returned last week from a trip to the southern markets.

Mr. Knight went to South Carolina two weeks ago, intending to remain there during the marketing season, but he found conditions there so bad and the warehouse business so unsatisfactory that he left his business entirely in the hands of his business partner there, and returned to Kentucky to assist in the organization of the co-operative marketing association in the hope as he put it, of saving the Burley tobacco growers of Central Kentucky from a condition similar to that which South Carolina is now facing.

Upon reaching Lexington he went at once to the headquarters of the organization committee in the Johns Building and asked for a contract. He signed his entire crop with the statement that he was convinced that if this association does not go over this year Kentucky tobacco growers will experience the most difficult situation of any since before the days of the first Burley pool.

Mr. Knight brought back with him some 30 or 40 hands taken from sales on Mullins, Bamberg and Florence markets. The price paid for each lot of tobacco is marked on each hand, representing a particular sale. These prices vary from ten cents to eleven dollars per hundred. He left the samples at the headquarters of the organization committee, where they will be inspected by the growers and warehousemen of the Burley district.

Mr. Knight makes the following statement to the tobacco growers of the Burley District:

"I have been visiting South Carolina markets every season for several years and have never seen conditions so discouraging as they are this year, including markets as Mullins, Bamberg and Florence.

"Opening prices on the Bamberg market last year averaged $17.00 per hundred. This year the average was $3.00 per hundred.

"Mullins is the largest market in the South Carolina district, and in that sense is comparable to Lexington as a Burley market. It presents the most gloomy condition I have ever seen anywhere. Warehousemen and business men say that financial and general economic conditions in that district are worse than they have been during the last forty or fifty years.

"The crop is not more than sixty per cent as large as it was in 1920, and I have never seen tobacco show better color than that offered on the Mullins market on the opening day's sale. Warehousemen pronounced it as the best of any tobacco grown in that state since they have been in the warehouse business. Yet the average for that day's sales was less than five cents per pound, approximately one-third of the opening price last year.

"I saw one pile of tobacco that would have brought from ten to fifteen dollars per hundred two years ago, sell for merely ten cents per hundred. The book-keeper in our warehouse issued three checks to three farmers covering their entire sales; and the three checks totaled less than a dollar. Many sales were insufficient to cover warehouse charges.

"A large per cent of the farmers moved their tobacco off the floors and hauled it back to their farms. Several of them made the statement that the wood used to fire cure it was worth more than they would get for the tobacco itself. Many high class farmers whom I know personally told me they were going to cut their tobacco and leave it in the patch, asserting that it would not bring enough on the market to cover the cost of curing.

"At Mullins J. P. Taylor & Co., the John E. Hughes Co., The Gray Tobacco Co., The American Tobacco Co., The R. J. Reynolds Co., as well as The Export, Imperial and The Chinese-American Tobacco Co., are represented on the sales floors, but none of them are paying more than ten or eleven cents a pound for tobacco that would have brought at" (Continued on back page.)

Spud Seed Improvement Object Of Fayette Men.

Demonstrations to show how potato seed stock may be improved by careful selection and the use of a seed plot have been started by three Fayette county farmers who are co-operating with County Agent W. R. Gabbert. Plots varying in size from one-tenth to one-twentieth of an acre have been planted with hand-selected seed which was treated with corrosive sublimate to control scab, black scurf and black leg. During the growing season undesirable plants will be eliminated from the plots in order to have tubers from only the highest yielding plants for seed. The choicest tubers will be selected at harvest-time and saved to plant the seed plot year. The remainder of the tubers from the plot will be used to plant next year's field crop. The demonstrators hope to eventually obtain high-grade seed potatoes by means of selection in connection with the plots. Those who are conducting the work are W. P. Pomerton, John Fisher and George Wilnot.

Fulton Banks Offer Trip For Junior Judging Team.

Three Fulton county banks co-operating with County Agent U. L. Cunningham will give free trips to the Kentucky State Fair to the three members of the junior livestock judging team which will represent that county in the judging contest to be held at the fair, September 14, according to a report by County Agent Cunningham. Boys who will be awarded the free trip will be selected after the judging contest to be held in connection with the Fulton County Fair, the three highest scoring boys receiving the awards. Preliminary training is being given to the team candidates by taking them to prominent stock farms in the county where they practice judging different classes of livestock.

CARELESS HANDLING CONTAMINATES FOOD

Dangerous Micro-organisms Are Found Everywhere.

Guard Against Enemies of Human Race by Protecting Food From Dirt, Filth and Flies and Keep it in Clean Place.

Dangerous micro-organisms, known as "germs," as well as those which cause food to spoil, are often to be found in food which has been carelessly handled. Typhoid and scarlet fevers, tuberculosis, colds, influenza, diphtheria, and other diseases may be carried by food. Most so-called food poisoning is due to harmful micro-organisms carried into the body by food which has been contaminated either by accident or carelessness. These organisms are to be found everywhere, but especially in dust, dirt and filth. They are often carried by flies, vermin and household pests. They may also get into food from unwashed hands or from dishes which may appear clean but are not.

To guard against these microscopic enemies of the human race, protect the food from dirt, filth and flies by keeping it in clean places and in clean receptacles, say Department of Agriculture specialists. Insist that every person who handles food or dishes washes the hands before beginning work, sends all the dishes, dries them with towels washed out in boiling water, or drains them dry. Care should be taken to cover the mouth and nose in sneezing and coughing, particularly when near food.

MAKE CLOTHES LAST LONGER

Garments Soon Become Shabby If Not Given Good Care—Airing and Washing is Urged.

Garments even of the best quality, design and workmanship will soon become shabby through lack of care. On the other hand, those that may have cost only half as much may be kept trim and fresh for a considerable length of time through painstaking care.

Cotton and linen garments, especially those that touch the skin or are worn in hot weather, should be carefully aired and frequently washed, because they absorb oil and perspiration from the body. If dresses, waists and other outer garments are carefully placed on hangers as they are being aired, many wrinkles will disappear.

Sponging and pressing will in many cases freshen cotton and woolen fabrics, but too frequent pressing of partly soiled white washable garments will tend to yellow them and colored ones may be permanently discolored in this way.

PIN MONEY FOR FARM WOMEN

Eggs, Poultry and Butter Furnish Means of Earning Tidy Sum All the Year Round.

Butter and eggs furnish many farm women with most of the money they spend on themselves and their children. The amount of butter a woman sells depends pretty much on the number of cows her husband is willing or able to keep. The number of chickens, however, is usually determined by her skill and by the amount of time she can devote to caring for them.

The women who belong to clubs organized by the Department of Agriculture and the state colleges are taught the best and most up-to-date methods of caring for poultry. The members are also helped in organizing egg and poultry crates which enable them to obtain better prices for their product.

ECONOMY IN COOKING FRUITS

As Much Fuel Consumed in Preparing One Pound as for Five—Can for Future Use.

It requires very little more fuel to cook five pounds of prunes, dried apples, or apricots than it does to cook one pound, and very little more time. What cannot be used at once may be canned for future use. Dried fruits may also be used in puddings, breads, and cookies, and to make marmalades, butter and jams.

Iron colored linen on the wrong side.

Asbestos is the only proper lining for dollies.

Canned pimentos combine well with canned pears for a salad.

An excellent way in which to use creamed meat is to serve in potato cases.

Fill one quart pan with water instead of butter and the gems will never scorch.

When stoning raisins it is a good idea to butter the fingers; then they will not get sticky.

For a change, use pineapple juice to replace one-half amount of vinegar required in French dressing.

Queer Quip Questionnaire

When Thomas A. Edison made out his series of questions as a test for employees, he started something. The joke-miths of the press are giving questions "air" at a rapid clip and the end is not in sight. A series of humorous questions shown on the screen in "Topics of the Day" films registers a laughing success in theatres everywhere. This season of the year is examination time for school pupils. Perhaps they, as well as their elders, may like to answer the "Edison" question found at random here and there in the public prints.

Fruit Exhibits Scored On Uniformity And Condition

Condition or freedom from blemishes and uniformity are the two important points to consider in selecting specimens of fruit for exhibition, according to suggestions made by members of the horticultural department of the College of Agriculture to farmers and fruit growers who expect to make displays at their county or state fair this fall. No wormy apples or those seriously blemished by scab, blotch or other disease should be shown since even minute blemishes may prevent an exhibit from securing the award when competition is close. Proper spraying will insure fruit that is reasonably free from insects and diseases. In all cases where the stem naturally remains attached to the fruit as in apples and pears, care should be taken to see that the stem is not broken or missing. Bruising of fruit which is to be shipped long distances to the place of exhibition may be avoided by wrapping each specimen separately in paper and placing packing about it.

In order to secure uniformity in the exhibit all specimens in the plate, tray or box should be as closely alike in form, size and color as possible. Fruit in the middle of the box or package should be equal in every respect to that placed on top since low-

KENTUCKY FARMERS REAP RICH HARVEST.

Revenue from Breeding Thoroughbred Horses Only Profit to Be Depended Upon.

Sale of Blooded Colts Produces Money When Other Products Bring Loss.

The Kentucky farmer has lost money on his wheat and corn, he is forced to ship his cattle and hogs to a buying and constantly falling market, and his losses on his tobacco have nearly driven him into bankruptcy. The calamities of a cropless world are placed upon his back, already bent double by his burdens.

Under these untoward conditions, the one fortunate exception among farmers is the stock raiser who owns one or more thoroughbred mares. He always finds a nationwide demand for his thoroughbred foals. The weanling at its mother's side frequently brings him $500 to $1,000, while the yearling will sell for $1,500 to $10,000; a colt from a Jefferson county farm having brought, at one of the recent Saratoga sales, $25,000.

Year in and year out, the Kentucky thoroughbred finds a ready market; buyers from all over the world coming to this State to secure material to improve the horses of their respective countries or localities. Owner H. H. H. refused $200,000 for Man-O-War, a horse bred by Mr. August Belmont in Old Kentucky. A wonder horse is Man-O-War. A master of all records and victor over all opponents that made some of the most brilliant of turf history, he has been returned to his native land there to perpetuate his great qualities. Last month, Man-O-War's full brother, Playfellow, by name, was sold for $115,000, and not long ago, John E. Madden refused $125,000 for a half interest in the Kentucky-bred stallion, Friar Rock, now in the stud at Hamburg Place, near Lexington.

Numerous other thoroughbred stallions and mares of nearly, if not quite, priceless value are owned in the State. Wheat, corn and tobacco are often crop failures, and cattle and hogs are frequently raised at a loss. But the thoroughbred has a great permanent value, for nowhere else in this country is he brought to such perfection as in Kentucky, and his fame and the demand for him are worldwide.

VEGETABLES ARE CHEAP FOR FOOD

Particularly Valuable Are Those Available During Spring and Summer Seasons.

SMALL PLOT IS SUFFICIENT

Garden Truck as Source of Mineral
Matter and Proteins is Much More Important Than Many People Fully Realize.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

The old adage, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," might quite as well have read "a carrot or an onion a day," and probably the result would be about the same as regards reducing the doctor's bill. Vegetables of all kinds are necessary in the diet, but particularly valuable are those available in the spring and summer, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Value of Vegetables in Diet

Without going into definite figures it may be stated that the food value of vegetables, such as beans, peas, potatoes, sweet corn, beets and carrots, is very high. When considered from the standpoint of the food value of the crop that may be produced on a given area of land, beets, beets and carrots are ahead of almost any other garden crop. The tenth acre planted entirely to carrots will yield about a ton, and in energy this would be equal to about 370 pounds of average beef. The tenth acre of beets would also yield about a ton and be equal to 380 pounds of average beef. The tenth acre of lima beans would yield about 120 pounds of dry beans, equal to about 220 pounds of beef.

As sources of mineral matter and proteins needed by the body, vegetables are much more valuable than many people realize. Also they supply roughage, which is believed to keep the body in good working order. In the course of nature, human beings as well as some animals seem to have so developed that they need a certain amount of roughage, which is best supplied by the coarser vegetable foods. During recent years there has been a growing tendency to reduce the roughage in cereals and some other foods, and, in order to offset this, an extra effort should be made to supply plenty of vegetables and fruits. In addition, fresh vegetables are among the best sources of what, for lack of a better name, have been called vitamins.

Vegetables furnish considerable portion of needed mineral substances and vitamins in diet, besides bulk.

Nobody has ever been able to stand a vitamin up by itself, or a group of them by themselves, so that we could look at them, but it is known that they are present just the same, because of the action that they have upon the human body.

Eat More Vegetables.

Too much cannot be said in favor of a larger proportion of vegetables in the diet of the American people. The English are considered a nation of meat eaters, but it has been shown that Americans eat more meat per capita than do the English. A certain amount of meat in the diet is highly desirable, but this should always be balanced by a sufficient supply of vegetables.

One of the reasons that many people have to a great extent cut vegetables from their diet is that they have been unable to get fresh vegetables and do not relish stale ones. The individual home vegetable garden planted either in the back yard, or a convenient piece of land, not only solves the problem of supplying the family with vegetables at low cost and in abundance, but guarantees their freshness.

CARE OF HEATER IN SUMMER

Avoid Danger of Rust by Cleaning in Spring and Storing in Thoroughly Dry Place.

There is danger of rust when a stove or furnace stands unused for some time. Smokepipes should be taken down in the spring, cleaned and stored in a dry place. The doors should be left open to keep the interior dry. A lump of unslaked lime on the grate will collect the moisture and thus prevent rust, house economic specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture say. Leave the boiler of a steam or hot-water heater filled with water up to the safety valve, during the summer.

Ever Get Bilious? Try This

NR Tonight—Tomorrow Feel Right

When your liver goes on strike and you feel a sick headache and bilious spell coming on, instead of prodding your liver with dangerous cathartics and laxating your bowels with strong irritating purgatives, get out your box of mild, gentle-acting NR Tablets and take one right off.

Relief will come just as quickly and with it genuine, lasting benefit. There will be no griping, growling pains or doubling stomachache. Nature's Remedy (NR) Tablets work promptly and thoroughly, but the action is gentle and "mild" and soothing. Relief comes through the action of Nature's Remedy on not only the liver, but on the whole digestive system, the stomach, the bowels and even on the kidneys. It breaks up the accumulation of waste and "lusty" poisons that have been building up in your system, cleans the overworked stomach, promotes healthy, regular action of digestion and metabolism in general. The inactive liver goes to work with new vigor, the bowels unburdened, the headache leaves, the "dull," "dopey," "want-to-crawl-around" feeling disappears, energy,

Take NR at once. Get digestive and eliminative organs working in harmony and relief is immediate. Never causes griping.

"gent" and appetite return and you feel yourself entirely, completely relaxed.

There is no better proof of the great value of Nature's Remedy for biliousness and constipation than the fact that more than one million NR Tablets are used every day—more than five million boxes sold every year.

If you've not already done so, get in the box of Nature's Remedy (NR) Tablets and take the first tablet tonight. If your constipation is stubborn or persistent, continue to take one each night for a week or so. Then note how you feel. Your bowels will be as regular as clock work, and you'll find yourself in better shape physically, mentally, every way than you've been in many a day. After that you need not take medicine every day. An occasional NR Tablet to keep your system in good condition will be sufficient, and you can always feel your best. Remember it is easier and cheaper to keep well than to get sick. Just try it. Nature's Remedy (NR) Tablets are sold everywhere and recommended by your druggist.

Wheat Yield Is Increased By Use Of Acid Phosphate

Treating wheat ground with acid phosphate resulted in an increase of five bushels of grain an acre for Henry Harrison, a Marion county farmer, who co-operated with the Extension Division of Agriculture and County Agent H. J. Childress in conducting the demonstration. Mr. Harrison applied 150 pounds of acid phosphate on one field and left a similar field untreated for comparison. The treated field yielded 20 bushels of high-grade wheat an acre while the untreated field yielded 15 bushels of inferior grain an acre.

Cover Crops Supply Soil Organic Matter.

Growing a winter cover crop is the best means of supplying organic matter to needy soils, specialists who have studied soil fertility problems say. When turned under in the spring the crop becomes active quickly and not only a source of available fertility but also makes applied fertilizers more effective. High limestone and phosphate give better returns when supplemented with organic matter, according to results of experiments which also show that rock phosphate in particular is assisted in increasing crop yields when used in connection with cover crops to supply organic matter.

A poor soil is usually one which is low in organic matter while a soil which contains a good supply of organic matter is easily and rapidly built up to a state of high productivity. There is no commercial organic matter which can be profitably used by the farmer and for that reason he must grow it or manufacture it in the form of stable manure.

Sweet Clover Valuable In Improving Worn Soil

Sweet clover has come to be recognized as one of the most valuable of the leguminous crops for soil improvement, where conditions are favorable for its growth, and perhaps the most valuable for this purpose on badly worn soils, according to Circular No. 60 which has just been revised by members of the soils and crop department of the College of Agriculture and prepared for distribution among interested Kentucky farmers. The crop will grow on any type of Kentucky soil provided it contains carbonate of lime, according to the publication.

Details concerning the time of planting, soil preparation, inoculation and the growing of sweet clover for hay and pasture are contained in the new circular. It also outlines the method of growing the crop for seed and discusses its usefulness in soil improvement. It may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky.

Farm And Home News From Over Kentucky

Todd county farmers who are co-operating with County Agent I. C. Graddy and the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture in eliminating the scrub dairy sires from the county are making rapid progress in the movement, according to reports from the county. Three meetings were recently held in the interest of the drive at which time 45 farmers agreed to use nothing but purebred sires on all their dairy stock.

Graves county boys and girls have enjoyed one of the most successful club camps held up to the present time in the series of 23 being conducted by the junior agricultural department of the College of Agriculture, according to reports made by club workers. More than 105 farm boys and girls of the county were enrolled in the camp.

More than 75 Jersey breeders in Christian and Todd counties recently made a tour of successful dairy farms in the counties to acquaint themselves with the methods being practiced by other breeders. The breeders were accompanied by E. M. Prewitt, dairy extension specialist from the College of Agriculture.

Marion county boys and girls have started their preparations for the junior livestock judging contest which will be held at the Kentucky State Fair, September 14. Candidates for the team which will represent the county are being trained by County Agent H. J. Childress.

A total of more than 170 Marion farmers and their wives recently attended six poultry culling demonstrations held by County Agent H. J. Childress, according to a report from him. Methods of culling the looper hens were explained to the poultrymen and their wives and circulars outlining the method distributed. Twenty-five of those who saw the demonstration agreed to cull their flocks.

Ten Carroll county farm boys are candidates for the junior livestock judging team which will represent that county in the contest to be held at the Kentucky State Fair, September 14. The boys are being trained by County Agent R. M. Greene.

Fayette Farmers Plan To Sow Ashland Wheat

Ashland wheat, the new variety developed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, will be sown on more than 30 Fayette county farms this fall, according to a report by County Agent W. R. Gabbert. Some of the farmers will sow their entire wheat acreage with the new strain while others will demonstrate its yielding qualities as compared to other varieties by planting plots of it in addition to other strains. Ashland has proved to be a consistent yielder in Central Kentucky and has given excellent results whenever Fultz wheat has been popular, according to crop specialists at the station. During the years from 1915 to 1920 inclusive the average yield an acre of Ashland at the station farm has exceeded those of the three leading varieties of wheat in the State including Jersey Fultz, Fultz and Currell's prolific.

Optimistic America.

The American people are optimistic. Nothing ever appears to cause them serious alarm or concern. They can't see the dark side of anything. The sun always shines for them.

The long dry summer, costing hundreds of millions of dollars in stunted crops, causes some disappointment, but no lamentations. The farmer just makes the best of it and sails right along on his course, firm in the conviction that what he loses this summer he will make up at another time.

The business world, at the low ebb of a long period of depression, never loses its head or makes any serious complaint. Diminished sales and disappearing profits cannot cause it to lose its supreme faith in the future. It builds in adversity today for success in prosperity tomorrow.

It is so in every walk of American life, in every sphere of American occupation.

It is the American spirit, which never admits its defeat, which sees only future victory in the midst of present adversity.

This town is a fair sample of the hundreds of thousands that dot the land of free America. We recognize conditions as they exist, and adapt ourselves to them without wasting valuable time in bemoaning our misfortunes.

But we have no intention of remaining in this state of temporary depression.

We know that a change is on the way and that with a little patience we will welcome its arrival.

The American spirit of optimism is the one that wins most in the end.

Japan In A Tight Hole.

Japanese statesmen are in a quandary. They hardly know which way to turn. Whatever course they take they are due to have some of their fondest dreams shaken.

In calling the international conference at Washington and including Japan in the list President Harding specified the far eastern question as one of the subjects for consideration and adjustment.

That is very objectionable to the Japanese, who prefer to have an exclusive hand in the far east, where China and Korea are at their mercy.

If she declines to discuss far eastern questions with the United States, England, France, Italy and Belgium, she admits her ulterior motives, places herself on the defensive, and alienates the respect and forfeits the good will of the other participants in the conference.

If she enters into a discussion of such questions she must abide by the decisions of the conference, which means that the other far eastern countries will get a square deal and Japanese ambitions of exploitation will be forever shattered.

Again, it is shrewdly suspected that Japan has designs upon the Philippines and other American possessions, including Hawaii. A conference agreement would exclude the Japanese from the possibility of any future control of those islands.

To refuse to become a signatory to such an agreement would be to tacitly admit the Japanese intention to wage war against the United States for their possession.

It is small wonder the Japanese are squirming and looking for a loophole through which to crawl.

Prune The Shipping Board.

The pruning knife in the hand of General G. Dawes has been working to a purpose, with the result that many millions of dollars will be saved the taxpayers through a reorganization of the departments in Washington and the elimination of unnecessary appropriations.

In the past one of the great ambitions of the bureaucrat has been to secure larger appropriations than were really necessary. Legitimate needs were hardly considered. It was a case of get all you can and spend more than you get, trusting to congress to make up the deficit.

All of this has been changed by Dawes, as director of the budget, and wasteful officials are warned to trim their sails and head in close to the wind if they desire to remain in close contact with their jobs.

General Dawes has accomplished a wonderful piece of constructive work, but what will it avail as if the government is going to continue pouring billions into that loose-jointed maverick known as the shipping board, which is on a par with our recent aeroplane orgy of official waste and squandering?

Why not turn Dawes loose on the shipping board, with instructions to prune to the limit?

Of course, the general might get into one of his famous "Hell and Maria" moods and blow the thing up with a few tons of dynamite, or tow it out into the Atlantic and sink it.

But in either case we are inclined to the belief that he would earn a collective and vociferous "amen" from a hundred million Americans.

Taxes are high as it is, without feeding them to an inanimate gourmand.

At Home And Abroad.

Lord Northcliffe, London newspaper publisher, who is "seeing America," advises Americans to travel abroad.

Good advice, provided a person has the financial means and has seen the interesting and instructive points of his own country first.

Ex-service men who have been in England, France, Belgium, Germany and other countries will tell you that foreign lands offer nothing better to see than what can be found right here in the United States.

Nature was at her best when she created this country and endowed it with its richness, and from the day of its creation it has been blossoming under the hand of God and man.

There are millions of Americans who apparently do not realize that many of the marvels of the earth are within a day or two's ride of their home—marvels that they have never seen.

As an example, of the two and a quarter million people in Chicago there are probably not over twenty per cent who have ever seen the stock yards, and yet they are the greatest in the world. You can watch a steer unloaded from a stock car and watch it step by step until its meat is in a refrigerator ready for shipment. You can trace the path of the hide, and the tallow, the horns and the hoofs and even down to the blood and the hair, step by step until they are all turned out a finished by-product ready for the market. And yet but few Americans ever think of visiting this marvel of the age.

The stock yards are only one of the many sights to be seen in this country. It would require years of travel to see and comprehend them all.

It seems to be the custom for many people who amass a competence to rush right over to some foreign country to "see the sights," all of which could be seen at home on the screen for a few cents. They see a few things over there, and miss a lot of things over here. Often they are embarrassed to find that some foreigner who has never been here has a better knowledge of this country than they have themselves.

The fellow who rushes abroad without first knowing his own country reminds us of the poor fool who passed by a dull nugget of gold in order to pick up a scintillating piece of glass.

We have many of them.

Tobacco Marketing.

The slowness with which the tobacco growers of Central Kentucky respond to the plan for co-operative marketing of burley tobacco is most surprising.

In the face of the fact that every grower must know, in the light of past experience, that there is no future to this industry if present methods of marketing are continued why he should hesitate and draw back from the Sapiro plan is unexplainable says the Elizabethtown News.

He knows that the price of his toll and investment is absolutely determined by a conspiracy between the big buyers; that there is only a pretended competition upon the floors of the Louisville warehouses.

He is now at the mercy of avaricious corporations who buy at less than cost of production, and sell at an enormous profit.

He knows that the Wall Street Journal, a most reputable newspaper, recently published that the tobacco buyers, the Big Four, made out of the 1920 crop $167,000,000. How much did the grower make?

He knows that unless something is done that the crop of 1921 will be handled like the crop of 1920, and under the present plan of marketing he cannot help himself.

It is up to the growers to determine whether they are going to continue to work for the Big Four so they can make millions or whether they are going to demand a fair share of the profit in tobacco.

The demand for cigarette tobacco is continually growing and the burley makes the best cigarettes. Are the growers going to share in the profits of increased demand, or are they going to let the manufacturers have all of it?

They cannot worst themselves by signing the contracts for co-operative marketing. It is their one chance to escape from the present commercial slavery.

With the Sapiro plan adopted by seventy-five per cent of the growers there is the very brightest outlook for the tobacco industry in Kentucky. If this per cent does not sign them the industry is doomed.

Co-operative marketing has succeeded in California in imperishable products, why should it not succeed in Kentucky with a product that improves with age?

What is done must be accomplished in the next two months and growers stand in the light of their own interests in refusing to sign the contracts.

Candy Prices Cut.

New York.—A cut of approximately fifty per cent, in the price of all candy from gum drops to bon bons was announced recently by a chain candy store company, following a general agitation against the high prices of ice cream, cold drinks and confectionery.

Benjamin Miller, one of the company officials, made public a memorandum which he said had been sent to the National Confectionery Association. It said: "It's time we got down to reason in this matter. We have been making not 100, but 300 per cent profit for a long time. This kind of business, if kept up, would create a panic."

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

For All Disabled Ex-Service Men.

"Disabled ex-service men of the World War are urged to take vocational training under the Federal Board for Vocational Education."

Thos. J. North, Local Supervisor of the Louisville Branch Office, is an Ex-Service man, and states that many disabled men fail to answer the letters to meet the representatives of this office at designated places.

"You do not lose your right to compensation by accepting vocational training."

"The Federal Board will give you training suited to your education and your physical condition."

"All disabled Ex-Service men are urged to investigate carefully before rejecting training, for if you do not accept it within a reasonable time, you lose your right to it."

"You can be trained in school, shop, factory, office, store, or most anywhere men work, provided it is considered by the Federal Board a good place to train men for a trade. The place to train you may be found in your home county, if not, the Government will send you elsewhere at its expense."

Put It Up to the Teacher.

It was Jimmy's first day in school and he appeared to be very much interested and was very attentive to everything the teacher said. In one class the teacher asked Jimmy how many fingers he had. The little fellow stuck out his fingers and said to the teacher: "There they are; count 'em."

No Great American Sea Poet.

England leads in really great verse of sea and shipping. From Tennyson's "Maid of the Revenge" to Kipling's "Gondalite Lights," English bards have sung of shipwreck and ocean spray. In America, Longfellow, Whitman, and a few others have dabbled in rock pools. The great American sea poet is yet to come.

KENTUCKY COWS

Win Places Among The High-Producing Jerseys.

Thirty-Three Cows Owned By Ten Dairymen Included In Official List of 880 Record Animals.

Lexington, Ky.—Kentucky is well represented among the state having high producing cows with 21 animals owned by ten different dairymen included in an official list of 880 Jerseys in the United States that produced more than 50 pounds of butterfat during April, according to J. J. Hooper, head of the dairy department of the College of Agriculture. The list of high producers is contained in the last number of the official publication of the Jersey breed association and is prepared from the list of animals submitted by the agricultural colleges of the country under whose direction the animals were tested. Cow testing work has made it possible for Kentucky dairymen to discover which cows in their herds were making good records and is largely responsible for the good showing of the State, Mr. Hooper said.

The highest producing cow in the State for April was Rexdale Catherine owned by T. A. King, Hopkinsville, according to the official report. She produced 1,071 pounds of milk and 74 pounds of butterfat during the month.

Kentucky dairymen whose names appeared in the list together with the number of animals which were recorded were:

Perrault Brothers, Dover, five; Allen Dale Farms, Shelbyville, five; Hurstbourne Farms, Louisville, four; J. C. Askew, Trenton, two; T. A. King, Hopkinsville, two; O. C. Hager, one; George Welmer, Augusta, one; W. W. Hampton and Son, Goshen, one; R. J. Shipman, Shelbyville, one and Somino Farms, Hopkinsville, one. Allen Dale Farms had two cows in the list by the same sire, Fairy Glen's Raleigh, while Perrault Brothers had two animals among the high producers sired by Hamley's Plymouth Silver.

Good feed and management coupled with regular tests rather than expensive equipment which the average dairyman cannot afford has been responsible for the records of the Kentucky cows, according to Mr. Hooper. Tests may be conducted by any farmer on the animals in his herd and is the one sure means of distinguishing between high producers and the merely average cow as well as increasing the value of the herd and its prestige among dairymen.

THAT DULL ACHING

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of it! For weak kidneys, lame and aching backs, your neighbors recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor! Read this statement:

Mrs. V. E. Bricey, Stanford Pike, Lancaster, says: "I took Doan's Kidney Pills when I was suffering with backache and they certainly are fine. I had a dull, nagging ache in the small of my back and mornings when I got up I was so lame across my hips I could hardly get around. My kidneys were weak and acted irregularly. I believe my kidneys caused my back to hurt. Having heard so much about Doan's Kidney Pills I took them and before long I was entirely cured of the trouble. I can certainly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Bricey had. Foster-McBarn Co., Mfrs. Buffalo, N. Y.

230 Campbell Poultrymen Shown Methods Of Culling

As a result of seven poultry demonstrations conducted by County Agent H. E. Link in co-operation with interested farmers and the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture, more than 230 Campbell county poultrymen have been shown the method of distinguishing between the loafer and the heavy-laying hen. A total of 495 hens were examined in the demonstrations and 181 of them rejected because they showed the characteristic indications of being non-producers. Demonstrations were held in all parts of the county and culling circulars distributed to those who attended in order to assist all poultrymen of the county in eliminating the lazier hens from their flocks.

American Legion News

John G. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, will lead the party of 250 members of the American Legion who sail Aug. 3rd, for France, where they will tour the former war zone as guests of the French government. Mr. Emery's decision to join the Legion pilgrimage to France is the result of urgent requests from the French government and Legion officials.

The former national commanders, Franklin D. Oliver, of Philadelphia, and Henry D. Landsley, of Dallas, Tex., will be in the party, which is to be composed of Legionnaires from every state in the Union. John Sprout, son of the governor, will be the Pennsylvania party. The "new A. E. F." as the delegation has been called, will sail on the Mail liner George Washington. An American Legion emblem will fly from the mast of the former presidential ship when she sails out of port at New York. There will be an informal farewell at the docks.

A special program of entertainment for the passengers on board will be arranged by the Legion committee. When they land at Le Havre they will become guests of the French government and from then on they will receive their A. E. F. days, but without the former hardships.

Among the distinguished visitors at the national convention of the American Legion at Kansas City this fall will be Stubby hero of Seichprey who recently was awarded a gold medal for bravery and faithfulness. The decoration was presented by General Pershing. Stubby has been especially invited to attend the convention as a guest of honor. He is a Boston bull terrier, wounded in St. Mihiel drive.

A national census to determine how many veterans of the world war are Shriners has been started by Ararat Temple of the Mystic Shrine at Kansas City. The purpose of completing the census is to make it possible for the Kansas City Shriners to send special invitations to the veterans to attend the annual national convention of the American Legion to be held at Kansas City Oct. 31st, and Nov. 1st and 2nd. The visiting Shriners will be guests of Ararat Temple during the convention and will be entertained in the home of

At a recent conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Sergt. Alvin York, who is credited with having captured a larger number of Germans than any individual in the American army, said that prohibition laws should be repealed if it is found that they cannot be properly enforced.

When the American Legion accepted the invitation of the French government to send a party of former service men to France for a tour of the old war zone, John J. Wicker, Jr., of Richmond, Va., a member of the Legion's national executive committee, was selected to manage the pilgrimage. Wicker has conducted tours to Europe, Palestine, Egypt and the Orient. He was in Rome with a party of tourists when the world war started. Later he went to France in the United States aviation service. He is a lawyer.

Michael Nolan, the newly-discovered mental wizard, who made a perfect score of 212 in thirteen minutes in the army alpha test, is a charter member of the Hamer Noble post of the American Legion at Seattle, Wash. Nolan is 43 years old, a lumberjack and former sailor. He was a student of the Federal Board of Vocational Training at the University of Washington. He recently passed perfectly, in one minute and ten seconds, an information test of sixty questions. One of the questions asked the definition of the following words: Ageratum, architrave, chamber, cleistogamous, clohm, gambit, guimpe, intaglio, metacarpal, mitosis, nada, punology, rocco and simony.

Cuba's Varieties of Hardwood.

Cuba has about 207 varieties of excellent hardwoods. Besides mahogany and cedar, there are about thirty species of palm. The royal palm is probably the most useful tree on the island, every part from leaves to roots being utilized by natives.

Energy in Various Lamps.

According to an English scientist, candles and oil and gas lamps transform only 2 per cent of energy into light, incandescent electric lamps 3 per cent, arc lights 10 per cent, and the magnesium light 15 per cent.

Woman Started First Daily Paper.

The first daily paper in the world is said to have been established by a woman, Miss Elizabeth Mallet, in London, March, 1702. She polished and edited the Daily Courant, which she founded "for the purpose of doing greater justice to women in general through the elimination of imperfections which the ordinary papers contain."

Campaign Emblems.

As far as known the first campaign emblem was a finger ring of copper. It was worn by the adherents of John Quincy Adams in 1824, when he ran for President, and was inscribed "John Quincy Adams, 1825." Typesets and medallions were among the insignia of the 1860 campaign when Lincoln was elected.

The Serenader Wins a Bride

By MURIEL BLAIR

(Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union)

"Young and rich and good looking, too, I suppose," spoke Harvey Lane. His companion, Willard Price, young and rich himself unfortunately for he was idle and without ambition, languidly drew a photograph from his pocket and extended it towards Lane. "Pretty as a picture," voted the latter spontaneously. There was real and earnest admiration in his frank, open face. Then it clouded a trifle. He was too poor and humble in his own estimation to dare to aspire for recognition in the upper circle into which his companion had free admittance.

"I knew Miss Drusa Hoyt at Acton," explained Price. "She attended the seminary there while I was at the college. These were great days—music, picnicking, rowing on the lake. My cousin Leona is a dear friend of Miss Hoyt. They met a few days ago, and Leona playfully told her she was going to send me around to give one of the college serenades which I passed through the town here. Drusa is full of life and fun and insisted she would be delighted with such a welcome reminder of the dear old school days."

"And you are going to twang the light guitar, eh?" smiled Harvey.

"With your assistance on the mandolin. Oh, we can make a fine romantic occasion of it, don't you see?" and Price leaned back complacently on the rustic seat of the village park.

"If Miss Hoyt was in my own rather humble class," half satirically returned Harvey, "I wouldn't try to forget that beautiful face, as I must do for my own peace of mind."

There was a rustle in the path closing past them and Harvey turning slightly observed a young girl pass and leave a note sent.

He scarcely listened as Price told of obtaining the picture from his cousin, also of an item he had used in a newspaper some time previous commenting on the "fine business success of John Hoyt Esq."

"You see I'll surprise Miss Hoyt with the song the college fellows sang many a moonlight night under the seminary windows. Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming," said Price. "Well, practice up a bit, stand into the Hoyt garden and give this dead old burg a real sensation."

It was almost nine o'clock in the evening when the twain started out. As they left the hotel Price discovered that he had run out of extra guitar strings.

"I'll get a supply from the drug store in case of accident," he explained. "You go head and I'll soon join you."

Harvey reached the Hoyt home. There appeared at its window a tentative form. It was Miss Hoyt. She saw him uttered a faint cry and then leaped from the window.

"Forgive me," she faltered, "you are a stranger, but, won't you—that is—I am all alone in the house and some one is below, and I am afraid."

"At once," replied Harvey, swiftly taking in the situation.

He dashed up the steps, to find the door open.

Harvey flared a match, found a gas jet and flooded the hall with light. Just then a timid, trembling form came down the staircase. It was Miss Hoyt. Harvey slowly advanced down the hall, armed with the weapon she had provided. Then as there was a stir and then a crash as of a chair thrown violently over, she clung to his arm. The next moment Harvey could not repress a jolly laugh.

"There is our formidable night disturber, no further after all, Miss Hoyt," he exclaimed.

A dog darted from the library into the hall and snarled past them through the front doorway.

"You—you seem to know my name," she began, and then, looking straight at the boy somewhat embarrassed Harvey, she flushed all over her face. And just then, too, Harvey noticed a but with a great blue veil on a half cent, and understood. This was the young lady he had noticed at the park. Had she overheard the conversation between himself and Price? He wondered, as he retreated to the porch.

"I—I had better explain how I came to be here," he observed. "In the garden, I mean."

"I think I know," smiled Drusa. "I had an intuition of a serenade. I saw Mr. Price today, but did not wish to spoil what he intended as a surprise. Mercy! What is that?"

It was a shot, shouts, a crash—then the jangling strings of some musical instrument.

A little investigation brought out the facts of the case. Price had gone into the wrong garden—that of a jowl out, crusty old bachelor, just married. He had observed the guitar and serenader, had gone for a gun, and Price had run for his life.

And of course the serenader by proxy eventually married Drusa Hoyt.

Not at All Bad.

The young H. N. A. S. officer turned to his fair companion and took her hand in his. "Molly," he pleaded, "will you marry me? Once more I ask."

But Molly shook her head. "No, Jack," she said, "for the twelfth time in an hour I tell you, I will not."

Jack rose to his feet. "Oh, well," he sighed, "after all twelve knots an hour is not bad speed for a little boat like you."—The Golden Gate Sentinel.

Fruit And Melon Crop Breaks Record In Georgia.

Shipment of watermelons and peaches from Georgia for the 1921 season have surpassed all previous records. According to figures compiled by the Southern Railway System from official sources 10,264 cars of peaches had been shipped for a form Georgia up to July 22, and the crop is expected to run above 10,500 cars. In 1920, Georgia shipped 5,663 cars of peaches. With a great part of the watermelons still to be shipped, Georgia has already passed the total for 1920. Up to July 16, Georgia had shipped 10,110 cars of watermelons and shipments since then have run above 150 acres per day. These results show that there was no ground for apprehension expressed early in the season that the Georgia peaches and melons would not move this year. Prices received by growers have been quite satisfactory. The Atlanta Journal estimates the return received by Georgia growers from these two crops so far at ten million dollars. Favorable weather conditions, and improved transportation facilities, and better methods of marketing are among the factors which have contributed to the success of the Georgia producer.

Washington, D. C., Southern Railway System passenger trains, operated over the double track line between Washington and Atlanta, are maintaining remarkable on-time records in both directions.

For the six weeks, June 1st to July 12th, the through trains from New York and Washington to Atlanta and points south were operated as follows:

No. 35, due Atlanta 7:25 A. M., on time 100 per cent.

No. 37, due Atlanta 5:50 P. M., on time 37 out of 42 trips.

No. 137, due Atlanta 4:50 P. M., on time 39 out of 42 trips.

No. 29, due Atlanta 11:25 A. M., on time 40 out of 42 trips.

Northbound, the trains from Atlanta to Washington and New York also maintained their schedules with great regularity:

No. 30, leaving Atlanta 3:12 P. M., arrived Washington 100 per cent on time.

No. 138, leaving Atlanta 11:50 A.

M., arrived Washington on time 38 out of 42 trips, late once 1:05, once 3:55 late, and twice 15 late.

No. 38, leaving Atlanta 12:50, made schedule to Washington every day except once when it was 1:05 late. It reached Washington on time 34 times and made better than schedule six times.

No. 36, leaving Atlanta at midnight, reached Washington on time 34 out of 42 trips, made up time on eight trips, and lost time only once.

These trains all operate through between Atlanta, Washington and New York, 617.5 miles over the Southern between Atlanta and Washington, and 224.5 miles over the Pennsylvania between Washington and New York. They handle from ten to twelve heavy steel cars and it is believed that this record of on-time and better than schedule service is not exceeded over any run of similar distance in the world. This regularity of service has been made possible by the provision of modern high power locomotives, operating over first class double track all the way.

least forty cents two years ago. "Banks and merchants of the district picture business conditions as desperate. The banks say they have loaned to their capacity, and the merchants are refusing absolutely to give any one credit. One merchant whom I know very well told me that business conditions were more desperate than they had been at any time in his memory. He said that he was forced to deny credit to men with large farms, who had been doing business with him for more than twenty years and had always been perfectly good. He explained that last year's tobacco prices had left all the farmers financially broke, that he had been carrying them since that time, and that with the condition of the market as it is this year he knew they would be unable to meet their present indebtedness.

"Laborers everywhere are out of work. Hundreds of hands are eager to work at fifty cents per day. A warehouseman approached a group of men, offering one of them two hours work at fifteen cents an hour. Six pleaded with him for the job.

"It may seem to some that I have pictured conditions as extremely gloomy, but I am willing to take oath that they are even worse than I have represented them to be. I believe that the only way for Burley tobacco growers to avoid the hardest times Central Kentucky has ever seen is for them to join the Co-operative Marketing Association a hundred percent strong. I have signed up my crop and intend to work every day from now until November fifteenth and help the Association over. I believe that it is the high duty of every man in Central Kentucky to do likewise."

Woodchuck Living Room.
The burrow of a woodchuck at first descends obliquely into the earth; it then passes nearly horizontally for several feet, rises moderately for the last half of its length, to terminate in quite a spacious and round chamber which constitutes the "living room" of the entire family, says the American Forestry Magazine. Such a burrow may be at least thirty feet in length—so long that one never dreams of digging a hole.

Weighing the Earth.
The naval observatory says the mass of the earth has been determined by means of the Torsion balance, an instrument for measuring very minute forces. By means of this instrument the attractive force of a large metal ball is accurately measured, and by comparing this force with the earth's attraction the mass of the earth may be ascertained.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

Governing The Duties Of The County Live Stock Inspectors

In The Commonwealth Of Kentucky.
Effective On And After July 28th, 1921.

Under the authority conferred upon the State Live Stock Sanitary Board of Kentucky by Chapter 69 of the Acts of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, approved March 29, 1918, the following regulations are hereby adopted prescribing the duties of the County Live Stock Inspectors in the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Section 1—The County Live Stock Inspector shall investigate all reports of contagious and infectious diseases of all live stock within his county and shall at all times co-operate with the Board in preventing, suppressing, controlling and eradicating communicable diseases in live stock. He is hereby authorized to make all necessary investigations, enter any premises and examine live stock wherever he may deem it necessary in the discharge of his duties as live stock inspector.

Section 2—That he shall when authorized by the State Veterinarian, quarantine all animals that are found to be suffering from or exposed to an infectious or contagious disease and if any animals have died to see that the carcasses of dead animals, and all of its parts and products, are properly disposed of either by complete cremation or by burning, and all of its parts and products, in the earth at a point where they never covered with the over flow of ponds or streams and which is distant not less than one hundred (100) feet from any watercourse, well, spring, public highway, residence or stable, so that the entire carcass be covered with at least two (2) inches of quick lime and three (3) feet of earth.

Section 3—It shall be the duty of the County Live Stock Inspector to supervise the cleaning and disinfection of railway live stockpens, alleyways, chutes, etc., through which infected and diseased live stock have passed.

Sub. Sec. (a)—To supervise the dipping of sheep wherein scabies have been found or where sheep have been exposed to scabies.

Sub. Sec. (b)—The dips at present permitted by the State Live Stock Sanitary Board for the treatment of sheep affected with or exposed to scabies are as follows: Lime and sulphur dip made in the proportion of eight (8) pounds of unslacked lime (or eleven (11) pounds of commercial hydrated lime, not air slacked lime) and twenty-four (24) pounds of flowers of sulphur or sulphur flour to one hundred (100) gallons of water. Nicotine dip containing not less than five hundredths of one per cent of nicotine. The dipping bath should be used at a temperature of 95 degrees to 105 degrees F. Dipping to be repeated in from ten to fourteen days.

Section 4—That the County Live Stock Inspector shall make a monthly report to the State Veterinarian giving the name and address of person or persons who had animals infected with infectious and contagious diseases, also to report the disposition of the carcasses of animals that had died also whether the premises are now free from infection, also in what manner disease was controlled.

Sub. Sec. (a)—This report shall reach the State Veterinarian not later than the 10th of each month.

Sub. Sec. (b)—Failure to comply with the enforcement of these regulations shall be cause for recommendation of removal from the office of County Live Stock Inspector and his removal shall be at the discretion of the State Live Stock Sanitary Board.

Effective on and after July 28, 1921.
Adopted by the State Live Stock Sanitary Board of Kentucky July 28, 1921.
W. H. Simmons, State Veterinarian.
W. C. Hanna, Chairman, State Live Stock Sanitary Board.

"NEW TARIFF OUTRAGE"

forced upon it. If that is scientific legislation, deliver me.

No Protection Needed.

"A great deal of fishing tackle is made in my district. It is one of the most important centers of this kind of manufacturing in the country. The bill places a duty of 25 per cent ad valorem on worm gut that is used in making tackle. Worm gut is a product of Spain. There never has been an ounce of it produced in this country. A protective tariff is supposed to be based on the theory of protection to home industries. Since there never has been and never will be an ounce of worm gut produced in this country, on what theory could the Ways and Means Committee possibly have acted when it placed this high tariff on worm gut? What effect could it possibly anticipate from this tariff except an increase in the price of fishing tackle? When I sought the privilege of offering an amendment to restore worm gut to the free list and to point out to the House how utterly absurd it was to put a tariff on that item I was thwarted down. I could not even get a chance to get the amendment before the House.

"The new tariff bill is full of just such absurdities. The House had to swallow them whole in one ugly, unpalatable mass, for under the rule the opportunity was not given to inform the House as to the character of the concoction it had to take down in one gulp. If anybody in Ohio, or anyone else, imagines that the House of Representatives really deliberates over a tariff he is very much mistaken. It is under the absolute domination of a tyrannical, high-handed ways and means committee. I consider the new tariff bill one of the greatest outrages ever perpetrated on the American people."

Various Storm Warnings.

Flowers, trees and low-growing plants send out storm warnings. Certain plants and flowers close up tightly on the approach of rain. They give ample warning. The common dandelion does this, and also the leaves of the white clover. The silver leaf poplar gives fair warning of rain by tossing the silver under side of its leaves upward continuously.

Remarkable Physical Strength.

While the average woman possesses only about two-thirds of the physical strength of the average man, there are plenty of exceptions, and there have been women who could rival almost every feat of the strongest men. One of the most wonderful of them all was Miss Kate Roberts, the daughter of a Welsh preacher. Though there was nothing in the least massive about this young woman, she could lift a full-grown man above her head with one arm.

Daisies Mistaken for Sheep.

In New Zealand there is to be found a member of the daisy family which is so large that it is often mistaken for a sheep in the distance. It grows in exposed places and the branches of the plant are covered with small leaves which greatly resemble the wool of sheep. The shape of the plant and the flowers add to the deception. It is sometimes called the vegetable sheep.

A Conundrum.

While watching a moving picture of the Isle of Wight, recently, an old English conundrum was recalled to my mind. It ran thus: Why is the Isle of Wight a fraud? Because it has Needles you cannot thread, Fresh water you cannot drink, Cows you cannot milk and Newport you cannot bottle.—Boston Transcript.

SECRETARY MELLON

Suggests That Autos, Mail And Tobacco Should Bear Brunt Of New Tax.

Democrats Say Shifting Of Burden From Rich To Poor.

Washington, Aug. 1.—A tax of 2 cents on bank checks, a flat license tax of $10 on all automobiles, irrespective of cost or horse power, an increase of first-class postage rates to 3 cents and an added levy on cigars, tobacco and cigarettes are understood to have been among tax revision suggestions presented today by Secretary A. W. Mellon to the House Ways and Means Committee, meeting in executive session. Other suggestions were said to have included:

A reduction of 50 per cent in transportation taxes, both passenger and freight, next year and their elimination the year following.

Repeal of the profits tax and elimination of the $2,000 exemption on corporations' incomes.

Increase of the normal income tax on corporations from the present 10 per cent to 15 per cent.

Elimination of the income surtax brackets above 40 per cent with the surtax rates on incomes ranging from $5,000 to $50,000 increased.

"Shifting From Classes To Masses."

The revenue bill if revised in accord with these suggestions would be designed to raise approximately $4,000,000,000 next year, it was said. Mr. Mellon's memorandum embodying his views was withheld, but Chairman J. W. Fordney promised to make it public tomorrow.

Representative J. N. Garner, Texas, the ranking Democratic member of the committee attacked the Treasury Secretary's proposals, declaring that every one of them constituted a "shifting of the tax burden from the classes to the masses."

Mr. Mellon was said to have estimated Government expenditures for next year at $4,675,000,000, but Mr. Fordney said this was depended on how much of the $500,000,000 due the railroads would have to be advanced out of the Federal treasury, the cost of operating the Government Merchant Fleet and the size of expenditures for the army and the navy.

$100,000,000 From Auto Tax.

Aside from internal taxes, the Treasury Secretary was understood to have estimated customs receipts for next year at $450,000,000 and miscellaneous receipts including salvage, at $350,000,000.

He was said to have figured that the $10 license tax on automobiles would bring in $100,000,000 and that added levy on cigars, tobacco and cigarettes and additional $25,000,000.

Increased postal rates have been estimated to yield another $75,000,000, but the estimate as to the income from the proposed tax on bank checks was not disclosed.

The loss of revenue through reduction of transportation taxes has been placed at approximately $150,000,000.

After the committee had heard Mr. Mellon, D. H. Blair, Internal Revenue Commissioner; Dr. T. S. Adams, Treasury tax expert and other fiscal officers of the Government, Mr. Fordney reiterated his statement of Saturday that he believed the nation's tax bill could be cut $500,000,000 and the Government run for $4,000,000 a year.

Called "Willful and Wicked Waste."

Mr. Garner said Government expenditures in excess of that sum next year would be a "willful, wicked waste to public funds, wholly indefensible." He asserted the Federal establishment could be run for $3,500,000,000 adding that Representative Martin Madden, Illinois, the new chairman of the Committee had declared an address that this sum should be sufficient.

Before the committee heard the Treasury experts, the Republican members were in conference with Mr. Madden for a discussion of expenses next year and more particularly the needs of the Shipping Board, the Army and Navy.

Examination of the Treasury officers concluded the committee's hearings on the revision measure and the Republican members plan to get to work tomorrow on a final draft of the bill. Mr. Fordney reiterated that the committee probably could not complete the measure under three weeks.

Kindling the Fire.

Cheap candles, cut into small bits and placed in the kindling in the kitchen stove, make an even better method of quickly starting the fire in the morning than using kerosene. And it is just as economical.
